Of course, we think it can; or we should never have undertaken the Evening Star. But it is clear that unless a sufficient number of our fellow-citizens think with us on the subject, it will be proved that we were mistaken in our opinion. Is this so? Do the people of this capital city want an independent paper here? "That is the question." If they do, let them say so by subcribing and paying for the Star. If they believe that such a paper is really needed in Washington-that it can be properly sustained—let all concerned "prove their faith by their works," and the thing will be done-and well done, too.

Is such a paper as we propose to publish required in this city? In our judgment it is. We consider it to be really needed, for various reasons:

- 1. To promote good feeling among all classes intereste l in the affairs of the government.
- 2. To encuorage charity and kind efforts among all of different persuasions.
- 3. To furnish popular literary reading, without the accompaniments of dry political or theological discussions.
- 4. To supply the news of the day in a cheap form.
- 5. To afford our business men a local medium for advertising, and our citizens a knowledge of the facilities of trade in Washington, on the lowest possible terms.

6. To present the claims of Washington as the capital of the Republic:-to urge its growth, its salubrity, its conveniences, its central location, its national, social, and intellectual advantages, as furnishing the greatest possible inducements for it to become the permanent residence—the home of the people.

These are some of the many reasons which induce us to answer in the affirmative the question-"Can an independent paper be sustained in Washington?" We answer yes; it can; and, so far as our best efforts can go to secure it, it shall.

But, it is said, independent papers have been started in Washington and failed .-This is a mistake. No truly independent paper ever failed in Washington. The Columbian Fountain is the only independent daily paper ever commenced here; and that did not fail. It was sold out by its proprietor. Had he pleased, he might have continued it to this day.

The Telegraph, the immediate predecessor of the Star, might have succeeded if it had maintained its independence of party.

We shall go forward, then, with the Star, in the firm belief that it can, and will, and shall be made useful and successful in premoting the best interests of this good city of WASHINGTON.

A MINESOTA NIGHT.—One is not filled with a perfect sense of the charms of our climate until he witnesses one of our moonlight nights. In winter they are nearly as bright as the day. The hills round about our meridian throws a strong reflection of the moons light in upon our town, showing its every feature, rendered more charming in the softness of the light. The trees of the forest bespangled with frost, set off the scene like a fairy land. The air is silent as death. The only sound that breaks the silence is that of an occasional owl, perched in the woods of the Sioux side. - Saint Paul Pioneer.

"Wall," said a soft-headed, blubbering Jonathan, the other day, "Suke has gin me the sack, by gravy I've lost her."_ "Lost her; how?" inquired his sympathizing friend. "I laid the soft soap on to her so thick, that the critter got so proud she wouldn't speak to me."

Safety Fluid Lamp—Chemical Cause of Explosions.

This is an invention which we have examined and which we estimate highly. It is a scientific lamp, and one which no one not acquainted with chemistry could have invented, because the improvement is founded upon a knowledge of the gases; it embraces the principles of Humphrey Davy's invention of the Safety Lamp. In the centre of the lamp, extending to the bottom, is a fixed cylinder of fine tinned wire gauze, having a mesh of 500 to the inch. A tube of like gauze screws on to the wick disc, and confines the wick. This tube slips down inside of the gauze cylinder spoken of. The can for containing the camphine, or turpentine and alcoholic mixture, which is now commonly used for lamps, is made with a disc of this wire gauze in the spout and under the lid. We have seen the fluid in the lamp set on fire by taking out the wick, and the fluid set on fire at the spout of the can, and no explosion take place. We have also seen the fluid poured in the lamp, out of the can, while the fl | in the spout and that in the lamp were plazing, and, instead of an explosion, the flame was extinguished. It may well be asked, how can this simple application of wire gauze prevent explosions in fluid lamps? The question is an important one. It was discovered by Sir Humphrey Davy, that fine wire gauze surrounding the flame of a lamp would prevent the ignition of an explosive gas surrounding the lamp-but why it should do so men differ in opinion—the fact is known, and Mr. Newell has ingeniously applied his knowledge of the same. The reason why any gas is explosive, that is, goes off like gunpowder by sudden expansion and contraction, when ignited, is owing to the combustible materials of its composition being fully saturated with oxygen, and it is then in a fit state to ignite instantaneously by the first spark. The gas we employ for lighting our streets, if it were saturated with oxygen, would, when a burner was opened and touched with a match, ignite quick as the lightning flash all the gas in every pipe and gas-tank in our city, and would tear up our streets and blow up our houses as suddenly and forcibly as if they had been mined with gunpowder. This is the chemical cause of gas and other explosions, viz.: the combustible materials being fully saturated with oxygen and then ignited. The coals in our fires do not explode, because they are not saturated with oxygen, the supporter of combustion; the oxygen gradually combines with the carbon in combustion, but if our coals were reduced to a state of gas, and the gas mixed with twice its weight of oxygen, the mixed gas would ignite instantaneously when a match was applied. and cause what is termed an explosion—which is but instantaneous combustion; a fire is slow combustion, that is all the difference between the two. Those who keep volatile hydro-carbons, such as alcohol, furpentine, or mixtures of these two fluids, in stores, &c., should be very careful and not suffer them to be acted upon by heat, so as to cause evaporation and saturation with the oxygen of the atmosphere, which is simply—to use solecism—gunpowder gas.— Scientific

SECOND SIGHT .- If our young friend who is in the habit of taking a "social drap" will look for about ten minutes in the bottom of his next glass, he will see the sugar form itself into the shape a middle aged man in the gutter, with a bloated idiotic expression, carbuncled nose, and clothes dropping off from rottenness; and if he will then follow the back track, he will find to his horror that the fallen one originally emigrated from the boots then on his own feet!

"Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." "TURN OVER AND OBLIGE."-We find a capital anecdote going the rounds without credit, of a merchant entering his store in the morning, and finding his boy Bobby attempting to throw all sorts of sumersets, and kicking up as great a rumbling as a town caucus. "What are you about?" asks the merchant, looking astonished at the wild evolutions of the boy. "Obligin, my girl, sir," replied the almost exhausted youth. "She's writ me a lucious letter. and at the bottom of the page says, "turn over and oblige," and I've been going it for more'n half an hour."

A Student in grammer, not considered the smartest, was asked by a lawyer, who wanted to joke, to tell the difference between the words likewise and also. Why, says the lad, your neighbor, (naming him) is a lawyer, and likewise an honest man; also you are a lawyer, but not likewise .-The querist not liking such an explanation of the gramatical distinction, sheered off.

The Rochester Union says the recent rise in flour of some two or three shillings per barrel, will insure a small fortune to some of its citizens, who have large quantities in store in the eastern markets. The Union is informed that one milling establishment of that city has over 40,000 barrels, another 25,000, a third 16,000, in New York, or now on the way there, and others have smaller quantities. An advance of two shillings per barrel would amount to the snug little fortune of $10,000 to the holder of 40,000 barrels. The season has been a prosperous one for the Rochester millers.

The following verse contains every letter in the English alphabet, except "E." It is a question whether any other English rhyme can be produced (in print) without the letter "E" which is a letter employed more than any other;

At Nottingham, England, the great centre of the lace manufacture, they are manufacturing a most beautiful fabric of lace for window curtains, bed curtains, etc., of iron wire. Iron houses, iron ships, and now iron capes for the ladies! Won't they attract the lightning, and shan't we have women of metal for our wives?

A sentimental youth, having seen a young lady at home, bending over something in her lap, and weeping bitterly, took the first opportunity of questioning her as to the cause of her sorrow, and was perfectly awe struck on being informed that she was only peeling onions.

A SINGULAR FACT .- A a recent biblical writer mentions a singular fact in human nature, that when men fall they love company, but when they rise they always prefer to stand alone.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Phil adelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many trou bled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured inmediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those whe have injured them selves by private and improper indulgences, that secre and solitary habit, which ruin both body and mind. unfitting them for either business or society.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c., &c. Mentally .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas Depression of Spirits, Evil Eorebodings, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.
